Proprietress of House at Silver City is Acquitted; Woman and Man Accused of Soliciting Girls for Her Place Are Convicted-Fay Martin Sobs and Wails as She is Led to Jail-Verdict Eendered Just Before Midnight.

BY NORMAN M, WALKER,

AY MARTIN, guilty. Edward Otis, guilty. Marjorie Campbell, not guilty.

Marjorie Campbell, not guilty.

This was the climax of the Fay Martin-Marjorie Campbell-Edward Otis white siave case from Silver City, N. M. which has been on trial in the federal court since Friday moraing.

At 11 oclock Saturous night the jury announced that it had arrived at a verdict and judge Maxey ordered the marshal to bring the jurymen into court from the jury room. J. A. Happer, foreman of the jury handed the verdict to the cierk and it was read in a stillness which resembled that of the night outside. "We, 'he jury, find Fay Martin and Edward Otis guilty,' the cierk read. Fay Martin, the self confessed co-caine user, fell forward on the back of the chair in front of her, sobbing with the abandon of one whose nervous system has been wrecked and no longer has the power of resistance.

Marjorie Campbell looked straight abroad of her as the verdict was read. She showed the strain in the tense lines in her face and the abnormal pulsations of her heart, as registered by the rise and fall of a diamond set trooch on her breast.

Edward Otis, the man in the case, blanched three degrees whiter than his prison paller and fumbled for a cigaret as the relaxation in the courtroum increased to a hum which was only quieted by the marshal's "order in the court."

Martin Woman Collapses.

Marjorie Campbell put a protecting arm around the emaclated form of Fay Martin and assisted her to walk to the head of the stairs. Reaching the stairs, the Martin woman again lest her self-control and fell backwards into the arms of the Campbell woman and it was necessary for the deputy marshals to halt the pathetic procession until she partially regained composure.

Then the march to the county jall started again with Fay Martin in the lead, assisted by her attorney, R. R. Ryan, of Silver City, and followed by deputies Ed Bryant and Charles Moore with Otis.

At the first floor entrance to the building she sobbed: "I can't oo on; I can't —I can't —" As the little group passed down Mesa avenue toward the jail, the home going theater narities in automobiles and carriages gazed at the pitiful scene. As the jail doors clanned shut behind her, she sobbed sorrowfully.

The sleepy-eyed court officials had waited since 6 oclock for the verdict. The attorneys, deputies and newspaper men had been smoking, telling stories and reviewing the case. Judge Maxey returned from the theater a few minutes before 11 and the verdict was returned almost on the bour.

Judge Maxey announced that he would pass sentence on the two convicted white slavers at the opening of court Monday.

Makes Appeal for Fay Martin.

For the first time in the federal or any other court in El Paso, a district altorney has made an appeal for the defendant in the case which he was prosecuting. Robert T. Neill, assistant United States attorney, established the precedent Saturday afternoon when he appealed to the jury in the white slave case of Fay Martin, Mariorie Campbell and Edward Otis that if the jury returned a verdict of not guilty in favor of Marjorie Campbell and Edward Otis, "for God's sake do not find poor Fay Martin guilty," he said to the jury in his arguments, which was an arraignment of the Campbell woman and Otis.

The closing arguments for the government and defence in this case were listened to by a gallery which filled the federal court room and overflowed into the abiles until the court balliffs had to clear the passageway to the halis. Blanford Figures in Arguments.

Blanford Figures in Arguments.

State senster Claude B. Hudspeth spoke for the defence rather than A. L. Dale, who was scheduled to make the closing argument. Hudspeth devoted the greater part of his time to special agent E. M. Blanford, who prepared the case for the government against the New Mexico women. This was answered by judge J. L. Camp in the closing paragraph of his argument to the jury, which concluded the argumentation. Turning his back on the jury and facing the state senator, with has hand extended across the table toward Hudspeth, judge Camp told him that Blanford was not on trial and that his remarks against him had no bearing in the case. He added that Mr. Blanford was doing his duty as a United States officer, and that he was working to protect the homes of this district.

Judge Maxey Delivers Charge.

Judge Maxey's charge was given to the jury following the attorney's arguments. This charge was read carefully by judge Maxey, who even stopped to correct spelling in the typewritten charge. The charge was the usual one, setting forth the charges in the twocharge. The charge was the usual one, setting forth the charges in the indictment, the law on the offence and a special instruction upon a motion of the government attorneys. Instructing that it was not necessary for the girls to have gone to Silver City to have completed the conspiracy. The jury then retired and started its deliberations of the case. J A Happer was made foreman.

The defendants remained in court and seemed cheerful, especially Marjories campbell, who laughed and talked with her attorneys. Edward Otis went to the rear of the court enclosure and talked and laughed with the girls who were witnesses in the case, until Capt. John H. Rogers, United States marshal, made him return to his seat with the Hicks, Bell and Walker Case Called.

The case of A. D. Hicks, John Bell and Arthur Walker, charging them with violating the white slave act by importing an alien woman for immoral purposes, was called after the jury in the Fay Martin- Marjorie Campbell case was retired. Thornton Hardle represented the defendants and made a motion to quash the indictment, which was overruled. Mr. Hardle made his first appearance in federal court and made a good impression upon the bar by his pleading. The case was continued until Monday and the jury was excused until that time. Judge E. F. Higgins, associate justice of the eighth court of civil appeals, was one of the defendants docketed Saturday night at the police station on a charge of violating the traffic ordicharge of violating the traffic ordia charge of violating the trainic offinance. Judge Higgins drove up to the union station in his automobile and made the wrong kind of a turn. When accosted by patrolman Funk, the judge said it was right to enforce the ordi-

Shortly before patrolman Funk took the judge's number, the officer caught J. S. Curtis, who also made the wrong turn with his automobile. The trials of the two defendants will come up in the corporation court before judge Ballard Coldwell.

Texan Complains That Railroads Charge Wrong Rate on Cattle Shipments

Washington, D. C. Oct. 18.—Irvin Kibbe, of Victoria, Texas, a big shipper of Texas livestock, today complained to the interstate commerce commission against freight rates on calves from Texas points to clites in other states. The complaint is made against practically every railroad doing business in Texas. Kibbe alleges he has to pay freight on a minimum carload weight of 22,000 pounds exacted by the railroads, whereas he can only load 80 caives in the cars, and these weigh but an average of 17,000 pounds. He therefore asks the commission to establish a minimum carload weight of 17,000 pounds.

Eight Railroads Are Charged With Violating Cattle Confining Laws

Chicago. IM., Oct. 18.—Suits aggregating $16,500 were filed today in the federal court here against eight railroads for violation of the law making wilful confining of cattle in cars for more than 28 consecutive hours illegal. The roads sued were the Rock Island: Northwestern: Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul; Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste Marie; Pere Marquette: Wabash; Illinois Central and Lake Shore.

7 ASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 18 -- All hope of enacting the administration currency bill into law at the present session of congress was given up today. Confidential reports made to the president set November 10 as the earliest possible date upon which a report on the currency measure could be looked for from the senate banking and currency committee.

At the same time, it was stated that six weeks of debate would be consumed by the senate before the bill could be passed on to the conferes of the senate Republicans Hasten Work.

All baggage is supposed to be aboard by 7:45.

Baturday afternoon secretary Reeves was kept busy distributing red hats, canes and badges to the boosters. Many did not call for their regaila, so Mr. Reeves will be in his office from 10 until 12 oclock Sunday morning to provide for those who have not already been supplied with "ammunition." The canes were made by the El Paso Milling company. They are of Madera white pine and a bow of black and gold silk ribbon is tied around the handle.

A quartet has been organized and vocal music will be "plentiful" on the junket. The four singers are H. S. Beach, G. P. Putnam, Winchester Cooley and Frederick G. Billings.

C. C. McDonald will be official orator for the boosters.

Changes in Personnel. Republicans Hasten Work.

The president was assured that there was no disposition on the part of legislators of the upper house to hold out against the administration. Republican members of the banking and currency committee have been placated by the chief executive's declaration that he had no intention of making the pending bill a strictly party measure and they too will join in signing a report to facilitate matters.

A suggestion has been made that the banking and currency committee hold night hearings, beginning next week, in order to hurry along the report.

The opening of direct negotiations with Republican senators, it was understood, was decided upon by the president because of suggestions from outside sources that they were endeavoring to delay action in the committee. Senator Stone, of Missouri, gave notice today that he would address that body Wednesday on the necessity of immediate action on currency legislation. No session of the committee was held. Senators and representatives are already beginning to look forward to the legislation which is to come up for consideration principally the anti-trust measures. It is confidently expected that president Wilson will early direct the attention of congress to the subject of the trusts.

Officially not a great deal of information is coming out with respect to the plans the administration has for dealing with the trusts this winter, but unofficially the plans are known in a general way to a good many of the influential Democrats in congress. It

Tango Is Abused In Society: Russian Dancer

EW YORK, Oct. 18.—"The tango and turkey trot are being abused so on the average ballroom floor that until they can be properly taught and properly danced they ought to be banned except for stage entertainments where professional dancers can properly interpret them," declares Anna Pavlowa, the great Russian dancer, who has just arrived in New York with 196 trunks.

"Unless the tango, the onestep, and all such dances can be properly taught and interpreted in a refined and artistic way," she said decisively, "they are not for society. Secretary Daniels has adways been a two battleship advocate, and nothing has happened to change his views on the subject. The threatened war with Mexico has The threatened war with Mexico has materially changed the sentiment in congress toward the navy and army. It may have influenced to a certain degree the president and his advisors. There a still a possibility that the United States will be forced to send an army of pacification into Mexico. The result has been that the opposition to adequate appropriations for the pavy and army has greatly weakened. Any attempt to reduce the strength of the army will be voted down, and it is predicted that at least a two battleship program will be adopted in the house by a safe majority.

Following the policy of the construction of a government armor plate plant, secretary Daniels is apt to recommend the building of two battleships in the government yards.
